An Abundant River that Shall Flow

Words of the Spirit #54 (Newspaper Format), p. 23, printed in 1995

I say if ye shall stay open unto me, you will see many acts of my Spirit, for my Spirit shall pour forth. I say unto thee that ye shall see an abundant river that shall flow. I say I promise unto thee that it shall flow for five years, I say if ye keep yourselves humble, it shall flow beyond the five years, for I say that is what I have chosen and what I have purposed. I say that is what I have ordained. I say unto thee do not seek to dam up the river, I say do not seek to stop the Spirit and make it stagnate, but I say stay as an open people and I say there shall be no end to the flowing of my Spirit. For I say that I am the omnipresent God and I am full of power and I am full of glory and I say there will be no end to me.

Stay True & Receive God's Miracle River

Our Sustaining Bread, Vol. 4, Issue 7, p. 4, printed in 2008

I speak unto thee I say stay true unto me. I say that it is me the Living God who is thy Lord and thy maker, thy master, thy King. It is me the Living God that you are meant to remain true unto. I say do not let the tempter tempt thee away from me. I say do not deviate from the pathway that I have called thee unto. But stay true unto me and I say that I keep thee in my perfect peace. I say that I will show thee that I am able, I am able, I am able. I say that I will extend my MIRACLE RIVER unto thee and be tremendous. It is me the Living God who desires these great and glorious things for thee. I say stay true unto me, for I am thy God. Thank me and praise me that I bear rule over thee. I say rejoice.

“The Sweet Waters of

My Purification”

Bread for the Nations, Issue 19, pp. 2-4

I say thank me that I the Living God am full of sweetness. I speak unto thee this day and I say that you know who you are, and I say that you are full of bitternesses, you are full of hatred and submerged angers, and I say you are full of those things because you have departed from me. I say you have turned aside from your first love, you have turned aside from your first estate and you have believed the liar more than you have believed me. I say because you have believed the liar and bowed unto his lies, I say you are full up with deceit and lies yourself, and you are full of bitternesses. But I say if you will humble yourself before me and repent, and if you will come before me, the Living God, I say that my sweet waters will wash over thee and my sweet waters will sanctify thee. And, I say my sweet waters will come into thy mouth and I say you will begin to give forth praises, you will begin to give forth adoration and worship instead of accusation and spewing, instead of hatred and anger. I say thank me that my water is sweet. Thank me that I am the God of sweetness, that I am honey out of the rock. Thank me that you may cry unto me and that I will come to thee.

I say that I know who you are as I speak even now, and I say that my conviction is upon you. I say bow down unto the conviction of my Spirit, I say do not resist me, do not stiffen thy neck and harden thy heart, but I say bow down unto me, the Living God. I say bow down unto my sovereignty, my lordship. I say bow down before me, for I say when you will bow unto me the Living God I say truly you shall be rewarded. I say bow to me this day, I say bow to my mercy, bow unto my goodness, I say bow unto my power, bow unto me this day, for truly I speak to thee, I say there is none other like unto me. I say there is none other that can make the claim, I say when you bow to me, I say the waters of sweetness shall sweep over thee. I say there are others of you who have never known me, you do not know what I am about, but I say you are full of evil imaginations and uncleanness, you are full of perversions, you do abominable acts. But I speak unto you even this day, and I say that my sweet waters of life desire thee, and I say that I desire to cleanse thee in the same, and I desire to sanctify thee and bring thee forth. I say if you will but humble yourselves before me and bow down, I say that you may become my children and I say you may be freed from the chains of wickedness.

I say the sweet waters of my purification shall come unto thee, and I say truly they shall wash thee and sanctify thee. I say they shall clear up thy minds, they shall cleanse thy bodies, they shall make thee a people holy. For I say truly that in my waters, yeah my sweet waters, there is holiness to be found, for I am the God of holiness. I say the gods of men are full of filthy waters, I say they are full of abomination and uncleanness, they are full of vileness. But I say that I am the pure God and my waters are pure, and I say that when my waters do come forth and when they do sweep out, men are cleansed of filthiness, they are cleansed by those waters, they are made pure. I say thank me continually for my sweet waters. I say those of you who come unto me even this day, come in thanksgiving and praise. ...Thank me that I am the Living God and there is none other like me.

I say do not look unto the left nor right, neither seek ye counsel of men, neither go down unto Egypt and seek their wisdom, but I say seek me, the Living God. I say seek of me that my waters of life may flow unto thee freely, yeah my sweet waters. For I say that I am the God of sweetness and there is none other like me. I say those who will seek the counsel of men, I say those who will go down unto Egypt, I say they shall be deceived. I say unto thee that they shall be cursed, and I say they shall be cursed in blindness and darkness and confusion. I say do not seek men, but I say seek me. I say seek me for I am the omnipresent God, seek me for I am the Living God. Seek me for I am full of great abundance and goodness unto all of those who will seek me. I say this day, even this day, seek me for I say that I am the royal diadem, I say that I am the holy honourable one, I say that I am the eternal. I say seek me this day, seek not any other. Do not seek for the bitter waters, do not seek for the filthy waters, but I say seek for me, the Living God, and I say that my sweet waters shall fill thee and fill thee to overflowing.

I say when my waters will overflow, they will go unto others, I say they will go unto others, and they likewise shall be cleansed. I say pray even this day for the infilling of my sweet waters, I say pray even this day, for the infilling of my sweetness, for I say I desire to give it in this generation. I say I desire to give it unto those who are athirst, unto those who are desirous, unto those who are longing. I say I desire to give the fullness of my sweetness, and no weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper. For I say ye shall not give the wicked one a handle, and ye shall not give the wicked one a pathway to grab hold of thee through. But I say ye shall be my people, I say ye shall eat the honey out of the rock, I say ye shall drink of the sweet water, I say ye shall be full of the sweetness of my humility, for I say indeed, and I lie not unto thee, that I am the God of sweetness. I say the gods of men are full of bitterness, anger and hatred. I say that I am full of sweetness, I say bow unto me and be filled. I say bow unto me and be cleansed. I say bow unto me and be washed, I say bow unto me and give praise and give thanks. I say that I shall fill thy mouths with my sweetness and no longer will you emit the bitter waters or the bitter words of the wicked one. But I say you will speak my Words and I say they will be healing, I say they shall be strength for I say that I am the God of sweetness.
